Coach In Mind

Admin Guide — running Club 2 Coach day to day

For the admin only. It covers a normal day, the Matches screen (the part that matters most), and what each tab is for. Figures match the app: a club pack is 3 introductions for $100 from August to January and $60 (40% off) from February to July (a $60 pack covers 2 introductions from 1 August unless the club pays the $40 difference; the app enforces this when introductions are made; the club ticks a box to accept it when paying, the date is saved, and both show on the Matches screen and in the vacancy details under Pricing), and the club's first introduction is free; one coach credit is 30 days in front of clubs and up to 3 introductions; a club advert runs 90 days.

A normal day

- Unpaid — anything waiting for payment or a top-up. Mark paid or gift an introduction when it's right to.
- Matches — approve or reject new suggestions (below). Opening this tab also runs the auto-match, so new suggestions appear by themselves.
- Support and People — reply to queries; the People tab shows how many new sign-ups there are.
- Map (Marketing & tools) — if it says "to check", a club has posted two different postcodes and needs your decision.

The Matches screen

Each advertised vacancy is a card. Under it are the coaches Coach In Mind suggests, each with a match %. A pending suggestion is invisible to the coach and the club until you approve it.

Before you approve — check the match

- Press Why this match under the coach's name. It shows the score for each criterion (accreditation, ability, competition level, age group, geography, indicative pay, gender), the coach's regions and postcode, the club's region and postcode, the distance once distance matching is on, and the date the coach's activation ends.
- Look at geography and the two postcodes first, then the activation end date. A coach whose activation ends in a few days may not be around.
- Age group and pay can flatter a score: a coach may only choose up to two age groups, and "negotiable" only counts when a pay figure was entered.
- If anything is unclear, contact the coach (email is on their listing) before approving.

What the buttons do

- Approve (or Share this match on a coach who isn't yet suggested) — contact details are shared both ways straight away. Both people get a "you've been matched" email telling them to sign in. If it is the club's first introduction, the club's one-month contact window starts. No payment is taken at this point: payment is handled by the club's pack and the coach's credit. The match then shows Approved by you.
- Reject — removes a suggestion. Nobody is told.
- Undo (on a shared match) — takes the introduction back. Both people lose access to each other's details; there is no email. The coach's credit comes back (if their 30 days haven't run out), and the club's slot is freed. Use it only for clear mistakes, not to swap coaches.
- Re-run auto-match now — looks for new suggestions straight away.
- Customise loading — changes the scoring weights for that one vacancy only. The club doesn't see it.

After an introduction

- No further coach is offered for a vacancy until the club says whether the last introduction worked out (filled or not filled). The card shows "Waiting on the club" until then.
- About a week after an introduction the coach is asked "Did you take the role?" and the club is asked "Did you fill the role?", both by email and in the app. Each is emailed once.
- Red flag: "Coach says hired — club says not filled" means the two answers disagree. Look into it before approving more.
- Amber flag: "Club says filled — coach says not hired" is the reverse mismatch (the club may have appointed someone else). Neither flag blocks anything; they point you at cases to look into.
- Amber flag: a club that has said "not filled" twice or more. Check before approving another.
- An advert and its introductions are for the one role advertised (see the Terms). You may decline further introductions where an introduction looks misused.

Auto-approve and the minimum score

Tick Fully automate matching and top matches are shared without your review. Under it, set Only if the match is at least __ % (70% by default). A match at or above that shares automatically and is labelled Auto; a lower one comes to you as a suggestion, as normal.
With around 30 coaches, scores will often be modest, so a high minimum sends most matches back to you. Approve by hand for a while, note the scores you're comfortable with, then turn automation on with the minimum set just below them. You can set the number before ticking the box.

What each tab is for Operations

- Unpaid — listings, vacancies and top-up requests waiting for payment.
- Overview — summary figures.
- Matches — described above.
- Loading — the scoring weights (how much each criterion counts), and the switch for using real distance between postcodes (off at present).
- Listings — the full detail of every coach listing and club vacancy, including indicative pay.
- Clubs — the club directory with contact emails and outreach status.
- Admins — admin PINs and the card payments switch. Some actions need the master PIN.
- Support — queries from users; mark them resolved when done.
- People — everyone who has signed up, with a count of new sign-ups.
- Payments — payments received and refunds, both products.

Marketing & tools

- Promos — free first introductions and referral rewards.
- Invites — the coach invitation mail-out (sent a few at a time, with a daily limit and a one-off reminder to coaches who haven't responded) and club invitations (off at present). Emails are in the CIM voice and signed by the Coach In Mind team. When someone replies "no thanks", enter their address in the "Never email" box (coaches or clubs): they are removed and sent one short confirmation ("You're off our list"). It is never sent twice. To add someone by hand, use "Add one coach by hand" (email, optional name and state) or, for clubs, "Add or change a club contact by hand" (club name, email, optional region): the club is found by name or created, and a new email replaces the old one unless you tick "second contact", which keeps the main contact and adds another person who is emailed and reminded separately (a "no thanks" from either stops both). They join the normal send queue; people already signed up or already listed are skipped with a message.
- Announcements — banners shown to users.
- Map — hot spots by postcode (coaches, clubs, mentors in three colours). Above the map, "Clubs with different postcodes": pick the right postcode or type another, then confirm. Once confirmed, a club's postcode is locked and the app can never change it again; the club's vacancies are updated to it.

- Admin guide — this guide.

Buttons at the top of the page

- Share copies a ready-to-paste email introducing Coach In Mind; Text sign-up link sends the sign-up link; Share flyer shares the printable flyer; Show QR code opens a full-screen QR code (with the logo) that people can scan to reach the sign-up page. Press Close or Esc to return.

Rules of thumb

- Every introduction counts against the club's pack whatever the outcome; a fourth is never owed.
- Unfinished sign-ups: someone who signed up 3+ days ago and hasn't started a coach, club or mentor profile (or saved one that isn't live yet) gets one reminder email, once. They also see a warning on their profile page. Mentors still waiting for your verification are never nagged.
- Founding mentor price: a verified mentor's first mentee introduction is $50 (instead of $100) while the founding coach offer is open. It is applied automatically at checkout, once per mentor, and ends by itself when the coach founding places run out. Mentors never use up a founding coach place or get a free credit.
- Pay on listings is indicative only and is never an offer or contract (Terms, section 3).
- Don't guess a club's region or postcode — leave it blank until you have it from a real source.
- If a club's advert gets no introduction in 90 days, its credit is returned automatically; refund requests come through Support.
